For audiences who want immediate ROI

Popular Keynotes and Breakouts

The Myth of Catching Up

A keynote with content. This session will make your attendees laugh, cry, and commit to implementing changes that will help them get things done. It is filled with meaningful solutions that make a difference.

Passport to Productivity

In a world where work demands are ever increasing and email inboxes are forever full, people need every advantage available. Help your attendees learn the relationship between routines and habits that will positively impact their lives.

The Road Called Chaos

This popular keynote is both humorous and entertaining. Packed with content, it dispels the myth "disorganized people were born that way and they have no choice but to live with it."

2nd Nature Productivity

At some point routines become habits and these habits can either add to or take away from being a productive individual. Become the person for whom productivity is second nature.

Entangled in Email

Poor email habits are a main contributor to lower productivity and employee frustration. This presentation brings immediate value to attendees with strategies that can be immediately implemented upon returning to the office.

Getting Organized with MS® Outlook

Outlook is a time management tool often overlooked. This presentation will knock their socks off as participants learn shortcuts designed to save hours every day. A popular breakout at conferences, this session always draws a crowd.

Audrey Thomas, CSP – The Productivity and Time Management Expert

Audrey Thomas, CSP, is frequently described as entertaining, effective and authentic. Her approach to presenting keynotes and workshops is to leave every audience better than she found them. Because her presentations are content-rich and high value to others, her sessions are usually filled to capacity, which helps meeting planners fill more seats.

What is a CSP?

Certified Speaking Professional (CSP) is the speaking profession's international measure of speaking experience and skill. The letters CSP following a speaker's name indicate a speaking professional with proven experience who understands what is required and knows how to deliver client satisfaction. Less than 10 percent of speakers hold this professional designation.

“Without a doubt, your presentation was by far the team's favorite. The practical tips, your easy delivery, and the quick wins you demonstrated had everyone salivating.”

— Barbara Anderson, Director, The Boeing Company

“Your training underscores the importance of having an efficient approach to email management in an engaging and informative manner.”

— Catherine M. Rydell, CEO, American Academy of Neurology

“Audrey gave us inspiration to make our lives better; her message was one of encouragement and revitalization. We were impressed with her insight into our daily challenges and will definitely invite her back.”

— Sherry Wolff, Contractor to PricewaterhouseCoopers

“I worked at Microsoft for ten years and part of my job was helping customers get the most out of Outlook. I thought I knew EVERY feature Outlook had to offer until I attended Audrey's workshop.”

— Michael Kennedy, VP of Sales Enablement, Kennedy Creative Events

“Audrey's ability to apply Lean principles to the office environment is unparalleled in my opinion. Her teaching style is engaging and informative. The applications she provides are both useful and practical, the results immediate.”
